

Getting to Know Your Appraisal District

In an effort to have an effective public relations plan, we extend the opportunity to have a representative of the Bexar Appraisal District attend your next community meeting. The purpose of the public relations plan is to promote effective communications between the staff of the Bexar Appraisal District and the general public, taxing entities and other related agencies. The goal is to establish and maintain good public relations with respect by providing accurate and timely information to the communities served.

Speaking engagements are an important opportunity for contact between the appraisal district office and the public to help better educate the general public on appraisal district information. It is very important that the public understand the purpose of the appraisal district and how it operates. The Bexar Appraisal District will take the appropriate steps to inform and educate taxpayers about the property tax process, procedures for filing appeals and other related information, such as exemptions that they may qualify for under the Property Tax Code. Bexar Appraisal District seeks invitations from any organization interested in learning more about the appraisal process and what services we offer.

If you are interested in having a knowledgeable appraisal district representative at your next community meeting, please e-mail your invitation to syanez@bcad.org. You may put the e-mail to the attention of our Customer Information and Assistance Department Manager, Sarah Yanez. If you have any specific topics in mind for the meeting, feel free to include them in the e-mail. This will ensure we schedule the most experienced individual to handle your community's questions and concerns.
